STUDENT TALK

Our theme at Wallaceburg Christian School this year is looking at the fruit of the spirit and how we can apply them to our lives. For the month of April we are focusing on self control. My class looked at Proverbs 25:28 which says "A city with broken down walls is like a man who lacks self control." Together as a class we looked at how this analogy connects to our everyday lives. As Christians our hearts are like the city; if our hearts aren't protected then the enemy will invade our hearts and make us fall into self indulgence and other sins. Just like a city without walls, it is easy for the enemy to invade the city, but if our walls of self control are built up strong then the temptations that come our way will bounce off us and not have an impact on our life. As students, we are learning that self control is tricky to practice but if we work at it with a good heart and do it unto the Lord, then we will grow in it and self control will be easier to portray in our everyday lives. As Christians we want to be like the city with strong walls, able to defend ourselves from sin and temptations.
